Background

- To better understand the current sentiment of the Albuquerque Public Schools community around in-person learning, the APS Strategic Analysis & Program Research (SAPR) department sent a brief survey to the email addresses on file of all 59,041 parents of current and formerly enrolled APS non-charter school students.
- The survey was opened on August 15, 2020.
- A web link to the survey was posted on the district’s website on August 17, 2020.
- By the reporting time, 5:00pm, August 18, 13,811 families (23%) responded, with an additional 3,174 responses via the web link.
Beginning Tuesday, Sept. 8, APS elementary school students are slated to go to their school four days a week on an every-other-week rotation. Students at school will be required to follow safety measures including social distancing and wearing masks. Students who aren't at school will take part in online and distance learning. Middle school students and then high school students will be added to this hybrid schedule that combines in-school and online learning later in the semester.
Parents: Uncomfortable with returning to school buildings

Level of Comfort with Child Returning to School Building:

- Very uncomfortable: 56.3%
- Somewhat uncomfortable: 18.1%
- Very comfortable: 11.9%
- Somewhat comfortable: 9.2%
- Neither uncomfortable nor comfortable: 5.3%
Parents: Concerned about health

- Concern about Child's Health:
  - Not at all concerned: 60%
  - Somewhat concerned: 26.1%
  - Extremely concerned: 13.8%

- Concern about Household's Health:
  - Not at all concerned: 60.8%
  - Somewhat concerned: 24.3%
  - Extremely concerned: 14.9%

- Concern about Community's Health:
  - Not at all concerned: 61.8%
  - Somewhat concerned: 26.7%
  - Extremely concerned: 11.5%
Parents: Sending children to in-person learning is an unnecessary risk

- Sending all children to in-person learning on September 8th is an unnecessary risk.
- Sending all children to in-person learning on September 8th is risky, but necessary.
- Sending all children to in-person learning on September 8th is safe.

Risk to All Children

- Sending my child to in-person learning on September 8th is an unnecessary risk.
- Sending my child to in-person learning on September 8th is risky, but necessary.
- Sending my child to in-person learning on September 8th is safe.

Risk to My Child
Parents: Thinking about and taking action

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Decision</th>
<th>Thinking About It</th>
<th>Taken Action</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Transferring my child to a school that guarantees in-person learning</td>
<td>13.5%</td>
<td>3.3%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Transferring my child to a school that guarantees remote learning</td>
<td>29.2%</td>
<td>10.3%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Homeschooling my child</td>
<td>34.2%</td>
<td>11.7%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Parents: Interested in long-term remote learning

- Yes: 51.5%
- No: 26%
- Maybe: 22.5%

Interest in Remote Learning at Child's School
Questions